Veolia Transportation Awarded Delegated Management Contract In Savannah Georgia

Lombard, IL, June 30, 2010 – The Chatham Area Transit (CAT) board, by unanimous vote earlier this week, awarded Veolia Transportation a five year delegated management contract in Savannah. The contract also includes a five year option. There are only two such contracts in existence in the US and Veolia Transportation now operates both. Veolia has been operating this contract for CAT for the past 16 months as a management contract.

The historic move to a delegated management contract now gives Veolia Transportation total responsibility for all aspects of CAT service which includes 60 buses, two ferry boats, one streetcar and 26 paratransit vehicles. The ferry boats each carry 100 to 140 passengers and make daily trips between historic downtown Savannah and two major hotels on the waterfront. The streetcar operates along one route, also in historic downtown.

“We’re proud to have worked in partnership with the CAT board as we moved toward converting this contract to delegated management”, said CEO Mark Joseph. “With Veolia’s leadership and long transit history in safety and innovation, and with support from the board, we look forward to a long and successful future in this community.”

The CAT board will continue to oversee Veolia, and will create a new position for a contract administrator who will be directly responsible for contract oversight.

Two hundred and eleven CAT employees will be hired as Veolia Transportation employees. The 13 ferry boat operators will remain CAT employees. The delegated management contract will begin July 1, 2010.
